INCREASE POULTRY PRODUCTS OF U. S.

Food Bulletin Says Can Be Doubled in Year, Adding $600,000,000 in Foods.

Both Meat and Eggs. Experts of Hovies, Breeds, Like Plymouth Rocks, Urged.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The report made at the recent agricultural conference at St. Louis that poultry products of the United States could be doubled within a year and that if everybody in a position to help did their part $600,000,000 worth of food would be added to our supply this year.

This includes both meat for the table and eggs. Very few farmers have a systematic plan for disposing of their fowls after they have been productive, although it is well known that fowls of the heavier breeds such as the Plymouth Rocks, are able to produce a profitable number of eggs at the end of their second year, and that this holds true of the lighter breeds, such as the Leghorns, at the end of their third year. Consequently, if efforts were made to dispose of all females when their best laying days were over, a large quantity of poultry meat could be placed on the market. All early-developing chickens should be culled out and used as meat. This way of disposing of unproductive fowls would allow the farmer to feed his grain to younger and more productive fowls.

Fatten on the Farm. Expanding the cockerels that are intended for breeding purposes will not only increase their size but will place a more desirable poultry on the market. Another practice that should be adopted more widely is that of fattening all chickens that are to be marketed before they leave the farm. This can be done easily by confining the birds a week or ten days and feeding them a good fattening ration. They will come to market then in better condition and the farmer will receive a profit for their extra weight.

The greater production of turkeys, geese and guineas, all of which can be profitably raised and a ready market found in most sections, could increase the supply of poultry meat considerably. The production of ducks especially should be emphasized at this time, because of the supply with which they grow. Ducks of most of the meat breeds, properly fed and managed, frequently weigh from five to six pounds at six weeks of age. It is estimated by poultrymen making a specialty of growing ducks that the feed cost per pound of producing duck meat ranges from eight to 12 cents, depending upon the current prices of grain and other feeds.

Increasing the Supply of Eggs. The number of marketable eggs can be increased by following a few practical suggestions. Among the most important of these are the production of the infertile egg after the breeding season is over, and the proper handling of eggs by the farmer before sending them to market. The infertile egg is obtained when the male birds are removed from the flock. This does not decrease the number of eggs produced, but it does increase greatly their keeping qualities. The production of the infertile egg and the proper handling and marketed eggs by the producer would increase tremendously the number of eggs each year by diminishing the quantity that are rendered unfit for food.

Elmer A. Sperry, aviation expert and inventor of the Sperry gyroscopic stabilizing device for aeroplanes, who, according to unofficial reports from Washington, has submitted to the naval consulting board and the navy department a device which will prove to be a complete and definite means of eliminating the menace of the German submarine. It is said to have been the Sperry invention that W. L. Saunders, chairman of the naval consulting board, referred when he stated recently that means had been found to successfully cope with the U-boats.

An increased production of duck eggs is advisable where available markets are found.

The poultry house should be clean and sanitary and the fowls free from insect pests, thereby preventing disease and mortality. It is estimated that nearly $9,000,000 worth of poultry is lost each year thru disease alone. Special attention should be given to the feeding and housing of laying fowls at seasons of the year when their natural source of food supply is cut off.

General Increase in Poultry Products.

Although the hatching season proper should be considered at an end by May 1, it may be feasible in some sections of the northern and northwestern part of this country to continue hatching until the first of June. Chicks hatched at that time, with proper feeding and management, will frequently begin laying in January of the following year. The maturity of fowls hatched late can be greatly increased if the mother hens are confined until the chickens are weaned. In this way feed that is furnished the chicks produces growth, instead of energy to follow the mother. Extra precautions should be taken in the late spring and early summer to keep the young birds free from lice and disease, both of which cause thousands to die every year. More general use of the incubator and brooder will considerably increase the output of chickens and consequently the number of layers the following year.

Railroads in general will welcome the order by the government to cut down the passenger traffic in the by taking passenger trains out of United States by a third. This move will do away with lots of competition between the steam lines which has meant a big expense.

A local official of the Burlington railroad said that the order would not impair passenger traffic on this line as there are many duplicated trains running between certain points now.

An idea of the saving to be made service to make way for freight may be obtained by looking over train schedules. In Chicago many trains on different roads leave at almost the same hours for the same points. Burlington trains at night between 6 o'clock and 10 o'clock leave Chicago in competition with other roads. Out of Chicago every day there are three trains to St. Paul, four to Omaha, two to Kansas City, three to Denver, one to St. Louis, and two to Seattle, Wash. Most of the competition to St. Paul is at night, the Burlington having one train at 6:30 and another at 10:15, the Minnesota Limited and the Chicago and North Western.

Chicago and St. Paul at night the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road operates three trains the C. & N. W. three trains, the I. C. one train, the Chicago & Great Western one train, the Soo line one train, and the Rock Island one train.

The Burlington does the North Western mail trains between Chicago and St. Paul every night. It may be that one of these will be taken out of service, although no such orders have been received as yet.

Competition between Chicago and the east, however, is most keen. Eighty-seven thru trains ply between Chicago and New York every day. Twelve of these leave Chicago between the hours of 8 and 11 every morning and 12 more leave between the hours of 2 and 6 every afternoon.

A 11th situation exists between Chicago and St. Louis where a total of 29 passenger trains operate every day.

ALL READY FOR THE WAR CENSUS

Sheriff and Recorder at Head of Work in Counties—Mayor in Larger Cities.

ASK VOLUNTEER WORKERS

Acting on general instructions from the war department that state adjutants-general shall be ex officio heads of the military census work, Adjutant-General Dickson of Illinois has set on foot exhaustive plans for listing all men in this state whose ages are within the limits designated in the federal army bill.

While an outline of the methods to be followed in the various states has been prepared by the war department and sent broadcast thru the nation, enough leeway has been allowed adjutants-general to permit them to use methods adapted to the special conditions of their states so long as they observe the main principle of the government's scheme.

General Dickson has begun fitting up a big office room in the state arsenal, across the street from the state house, where a large corps of census takers, both men and women, will be employed. It is hoped to obtain enough volunteer service to accomplish the enumeration, but the government has provided remuneration for workers whom it is necessary to pay.

Headquarters at Springfield. Two headquarters in Springfield will be the seat from which the work in every county in Illinois will be administered.

Governor Jordan is head of the state military organization and therefore in titular head of the census making machinery, but all details have been turned over to Adjutant-General Dickson.

General Dickson said the sheriff and the recorder in each county in Illinois would be constituted members of the county census boards by virtue of their offices. Other than these he has not yet determined upon, the probable make up of the local boards. In cities, there will be one chief board, and such other subsidiary boards as may be needed to carry out the work.

Election precincts will be followed in accomplishing the registration on a day to be designated by President Wilson in a proclamation. Mayors, in cities of 10,000 and upwards, will be in charge of the census work.

WILL NOW MAKE SHOES IN AURORA

Dave Sherman Springs Surprise

Aurora is to have a shoe factory. Dave Sherman, proprietor of the Quick Shoe Repair Shop and the Original Shoe Market at 37 and 39 South Broadway, has announced his intention of manufacturing custom made shoes for the Aurora public. It is his plan to sell out the shoe market and use this space for his factory. The entire room will be equipped with the most modern machinery and improvements. Sherman claims a new invention just discovered will enable him to turn out shoes two hours after measurements have been taken. Shoes will be made to order, only solid leather used and they will sell at all prices. The Shoe Repair shop will continue as before at 37 South Broadway. Sherman, being anxious to sell out the market, has cut shoes to cost prices, figures the likes of which have never been seen before in Aurora. Now that he is selling out you can depend on it. Dave will do it in a hurry if he has to practically give goods away to do so.—Adv.

HOPE FOR MAJORITY OF CONSUMPTIVES

(The International News Service.)

Cincinnati, May 10.—That the majority of cases of tuberculosis, existing in a section at any given time will recover completely if they receive proper care at sanatoria, hospitals and at home, and that these patients need not necessarily and at any time be a danger to persons around them, is shown by an analysis of 2,957 cases studied recently in the state of Michigan in the course of a state-wide survey. These cases were distributed thru 22 different counties.

Dr. F. C. Vaughan, Jr., of Detroit, in reporting the results of this study before the clinical section of the annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today showed that out of these 2,957 cases, 1,715, or over 57 per cent, were in the incipient stage and in most instances under supervision will recover without at any time being infectious.

It was found that during this early stage a "temperature" was most common, and therefore served as a timely warning of danger. In less than 15 per cent of the entire number of cases studied had there been any sign of hemorrhage. The influence of intimate association in the spread of tuberculosis by infection was shown by the fact that among these cases tuberculosis females generally gave a history of the disease in a mother or sister, while the males reported tuberculosis in a father or brother.

GERMAN PLOTTER TAKEN TO GENEVA

Hans Helle, Giant Chased by Secret Service Men, Was Finally Located in Chicago.

Charged With Placing Bombs on Boat in Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico Ports.

Hans Helle, a giant German, watched by American secret service men for six months past, is now a prisoner in the Kane county jail at Geneva. Helle is charged with being one of the men who planted bombs in the boats in the Atlantic ocean and Gulf of Mexico ports.

Helle was located at New Orleans last winter but escaped, although surrounded by 15 secret service men. The search for Helle was continued and he was finally found at the round house of the C. & N. W. railroad company at West Fortieth street, Chicago. He had obtained employment there and was working as a janitor. He was arrested on a president's order.

Helle was ordered taken to Geneva for safe keeping by Attorney-General Gregory and was taken there from Chicago by United States Deputy Marshal Thomas Smith of Aurora. Before taking his prisoner to the county jail Smith had him locked in the Aurora jail.

Helle weighs 310 pounds and is six feet and one inch tall. He is a man of exceptional strength. Fellow workmen at the Chicago round house stated that he could lift the side rod of one of the large locomotive drive wheels without any apparent effort.

Knitting Bee Meeting.

The meeting of the Bay View club was held Saturday afternoon with Miss Helene Schmidt. There were games and later refreshments. The decorations were in red, white and blue. The members present, little girls about eight years of age, were Marion Dwyer, Ruth Kibick, Margaret Faxon and Sarah Worst.

The Knitted Sweaters.

Knitting has seemed to become increasingly popular of late, one of the amusements of the moment being the knitting of sweaters. Any number of young girls are at work upon the pretty garments, knitted of the heavy Germantown, the Shetland or what is known as "Vicuna," a silky wool. Many are knitted in kimono fashion, others in regulation sweater pattern. The majority have the white collars and cuffs, with bands of the color. Some of the sweaters are crocheted but they, of course, are not to be compared with the knitted garments.

It is estimated that a sweater made in this way costs the maker but four or five dollars, while at some of the large shops similar garments cost $25.

Fern Club.

The Fern club met Friday with Mrs. Frank Young at her Kaneville home. There was a delicious dinner, followed by cards, the scores going to Mesdames William Shoner and William Klammer. The members are now planning to "double up" four women entertaining at each meeting, the first of the doubled meetings to be held at the home of Mrs. Klammer.

Teen Age Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Teen Age girls will be held Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A. There will be a picnic supper and the members are asked to be out in full force in order that the play, "A Modern Cinderella," to be given under the direction of Miss Alice Babb some time in June, may be rehearsed.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Lane of 224 North Lake street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Celeste Lane, to Charles Pedder, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., now of Chicago. Miss Lane, whose father is postmaster at Mooseheart, met Mr. Pedder in Florida where both were winter visitors. Mr. Pedder is engaged in the brokerage and commission business and is located in Florida in the winter.

The date of the wedding was not announced, but will take place during this spring or summer.

You will find everything in this store of the 1917 styles, for we never permit old goods to accumulate. When you buy here you run no risk of embarrassment when your friends call, because everything you have will be up-to-date.

We have outfitted hundreds of June Brides and our experience may be helpful in suggesting just the things to get first, particularly if the expense is an item for serious consideration. Come and see the stock anyway before you buy; you will not be urged to buy just because you called to look. We will be very glad to show you the finest line in this section, for we are proud enough of it to enjoy showing it to those who are interested enough to spend their time looking.

One thing is certain: everybody who comes here is a friend of the house if they buy or not. If we do not sell them this time, we will do so some time; because they become impressed with our desire to please, and fairness in dealing.

Tomorrow Will Be a Good Time to Come!

Aurora Society News

It is a dull week when the women of Aurora cannot elect somebody. Last week witnessed two—that of the Aurora Woman's club and the election of a member of the east school board to fill a vacancy. The woman came out in full force. The first vote cast in the election was that of a woman, Mrs. Eliza Young, grandmother of the successful candidate, Sumner J. Ricker Jr., with an untold vote over the "junior." The center school had all the appearance of the site of a presidential contest, so thick were the automobiles, motorcycles and workers. Mr. Ricker with a hallful of workers, was the usual genial self, well supported by his brother, DeLoach, far better known in Aurora, Ill., as "Budge," while his sister, Miss Mollie Ricker, drove one of the automobiles. Mr. Ricker was described shaking hands with Miss Jessie Parnsworth, a late comer in the field, whose friends and neighbors rallied about her, while Mr. Ricker stood a little at one side with his friends. It was woman's day, however, many coming with tiny children, even babies in perambulators.

The Red Cross Entertainment. Rehearsals were going yesterday for the Lady Mistrals to be given at the Fox theater Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week for the benefit of the Red Cross. The entertainment promises to be extremely clever, with catchy songs, pretty girls in gay costumes, attractive stage arrangement, and all the jokes and innuendoes of a musical club.

The tickets are selling for 50 cents apiece, and by the way are selling, too—one young woman having sold 75 up to date, so it was reported Saturday afternoon. These tickets are to be exchanged Wednesday morning at the Fox theater, free of extra charge. Among the unusual features which will be included is a Hungarian dance, given by native Hungarians in costume. A quartet from the Cecilia Musical club is another unusual feature.

The choruses will be more than ordinarily good as all the voices are fresh and unspoiled and is said that Saturday's rehearsal went remarkably well. The dress rehearsal will be held Tuesday evening at the theater. The ushers are to be young women, a number of them members of the Beta Phi Delta sorority.

Aurora Country Club May Party. The Aurora Country club is about to awaken from its winter hibernation and again become the gay, informal social mecca which it was before the war clouds seemed unpleasantly imminent.

May 24 there will be one of the nicest possible May parties, in charge of the club entertainment committee. There will be decorations in flags and all sorts of festive symbols, and dancing and card playing will both be on tap. It is said that music has been secured on the calliope which would put inspiration into an Indian clarinet, and while nothing was said about it, there will probably be a band, at least at the first opportunity. N. M. Hutchinson, chairman of the committee, will be interviewed on this subject. Members are cordially invited, and by the way also, they are permitted to bring guests. A May party is always one of the prettiest occasions of any season, for there is an opportunity to wear light colored gowns, and there can be flowers galore.

Delta Phi Sigma. The Delta Phi Sigma fraternity, which recently opened its new club rooms in South Broadway, will give a dancing party in Sweet's academy next Wednesday evening. Herbert Gilbert and Otto Cronwell constitute the committee in charge. The music will be furnished by the Eddie Fitzgerald orchestra.

Miss Ganser's Closing Party. Miss Alice Ganser, the popular little girl, a dancer, teacher, who is to be married in June, gave her closing party last evening, with a number of lovely May dances by the children, after which there was general dancing for the junior high school young people. Marian Magman, one of the young dancers, is but 5 years old and her dancing was remarkable. The program was as follows:

"May Day," Marian Magman, and "Romance," June Keith, both little girls wearing ball costumes. Spring song, Marian Magman, Margaret Mangan, Corinne Alshuler, June Thomas, Helen Rhodes, Geraldine Chapman and Alice Evans.

"Valentine daisy," Katherine Martin, "Midsummer Moon," Jessie Thomas and Margaret Mangan. These little girls were what is known as "nature gowns," little white straight gowns.

"The daisy dance," Grace Stuart, Eleanor Mangan, Katherine Martin, Helen Rhodes, June Keith, Helen McDougal, in yellow and white ball gowns, carrying daisies.

"Morning" and "Evening," Corinne Alshuler, Helen Rhodes, in "nature gowns."

"A butterfly," Geraldine Chapman, yellow and white net. "Dance of the winds," Jessie Thomas, as Marian Magman, Margaret Mangan, Alice Evans, Geraldine Chapman and Corinne Alshuler, wearing lovely little gowns in pale pink and pale yellow, and with floating maline veils.

"The air fairy," Grace Stuart, in ballet gown. "The brook," Alice Evans, in nature dress.

"Voice of spring," Helen McDougal, in ballet gown. "The spring waltz," Marian Magman, in ballet gown.

"The love dance," Jessie Thomas, June Keith, Grace Stuart, Eleanor Mangan, Katherine Martin, Helen Rhodes, in ballet gowns. "Dance of the winds," Jessie Thomas, as Marian Magman, Margaret Mangan, Alice Evans, Geraldine Chapman and Corinne Alshuler, wearing lovely little gowns in pale pink and pale yellow, and with floating maline veils.

Play for Benefit of Hospital. The tickets for "The School of Scandal," to be given at the Fox theater the evening of May 24-25 will be 50 cents each. H. J. Henry, Jr. Mr. Burnett are acting as the business managers for the two performances. This should be one of the really enjoyable events of the season, outside of its being an opportunity to contribute to the Aurora hospital fund for the cast has been working up this play for weeks and is said to be going in really professional manner.

The May Breakfast. "Let us forget," if you cannot attend the St. Cecilia Musical club annual May breakfast Monday, the lady and telephone four hosts, Mrs. L. J. Mead, to this effect: "I didn't put it this way but the request or did—at least the committee was some sort of notification."

It Is Some Garden. Speaking of gardens, they do say that one of the gardens exhibiting a good strong contrast—a unique garden it might be said, is out about 15 inches square which is planted and cared for by the young daughter of the Fred Worst family, which has one and planted solidly with onions, and the other with Baby's breath—the most delicate flower imaginable.

To Give May Party. Next Tuesday evening the Mystic Workers give their annual May party in the Charlemagne hall, with dancing and a May pole and all the other things. It was while Mr. Henry R. Rellin was May polling in other words, showing the May pole dancer how to frolic and gambol, that the door flew up and hit her and broke her wrist.

HOLY ANGELS' ANNIVERSARY

Silver Jubilee and Confirmation of More Than 100 Planned for May 20.

BISHOP MULDOON COMING

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Holy Angels parish will be observed Sunday, May 20. Plans have been made to mark the day in a fitting manner. The religious feature of the jubilee will be held in the morning when solemn high mass will be celebrated at 10:30 and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Bishop Muldoon will confirm a class of more than 100 and will preach. The bishop will remain to preside at the evening program, which will begin at 8 o'clock. This will be an entertainment by the choir and by talent from the parish and school with special commemorative exercises at which the Hon. Daniel Brady of Portage, Wis., far famed for his eloquence and wit, will be the speaker. This will be Mr. Brady's first appearance in Aurora, but his reputation has preceded him and the members of the jubilee committee feel that they are most fortunate to secure him. Both the religious and social features are expected to draw crowds of former parishioners back to Holy Angels for the day.

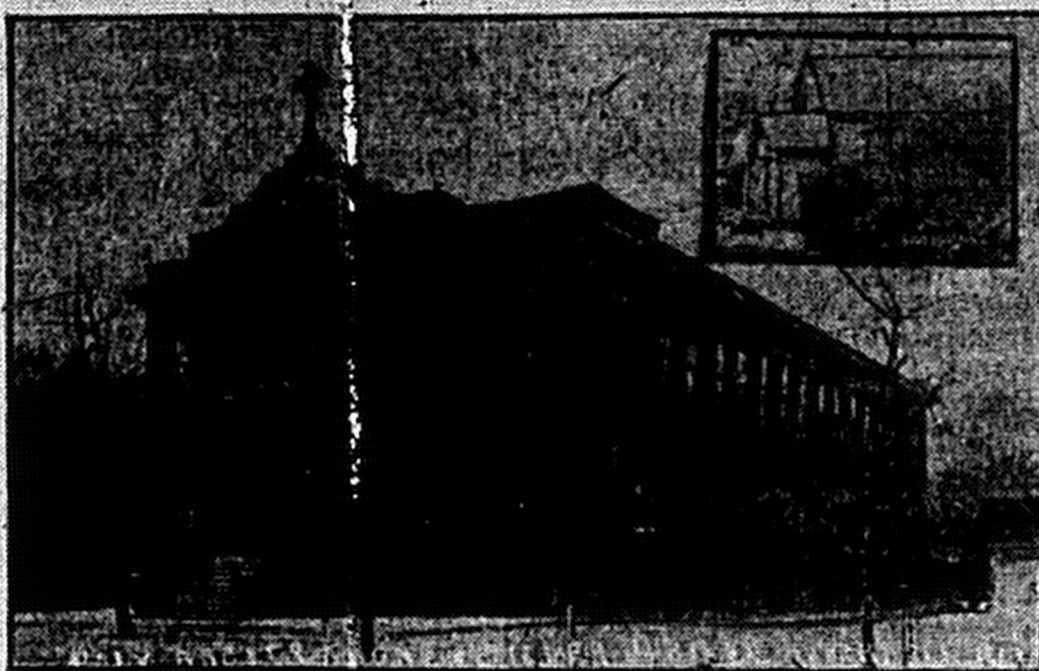

History of Church.
Early in the spring of 1892 the Most Reverend Patrick A. Feghan, archbishop of Chicago, commissioned the Rev. William A. McNamee to organize the parish in West Aurora. Father McNamee secured the third floor of Sweet's academy on North River street for temporary use and there the first services of the new congregation were held on the third Sunday of May. A little later the old Second Advent church on Locust street was purchased. Archbishop Feghan came to Aurora to take formal possession as the representative of the church and to bless the structure, being accompanied on this occasion by his distinguished guest, the late Cardinal Satolli, who had come to Chicago to represent the pope at the official opening of the Columbian exposition.

The following year the adjoining property on the corner of Galena boulevard, was acquired for a rectory. Father McNamee was appointed pastor of St. Mary's church, Joliet, in February, 1901, and was succeeded by the Rev. D. J. O'Brien, who remained until March, 1901, when he was transferred to Chicago and the Rev. L. J. Reynolds came to Aurora. Father Reynolds was in charge of the parish for eight years and was succeeded in the pastorate by the Rev. James A. Quinn. Father Quinn immediately removed the old structure and erected the splendid edifice which is church, school and hall combined. He established a school under the direction of the Dominican Sisters from Springfield, and last year purchased the McCullough property south of the church as a residence for the sisters. The parish now numbers about 450 families and there are more than 300 children attending the school.

George E. Martin and John Linden are the trustees of Holy Angels parish and Judge E. M. Mangum is chairman of the finance organization.

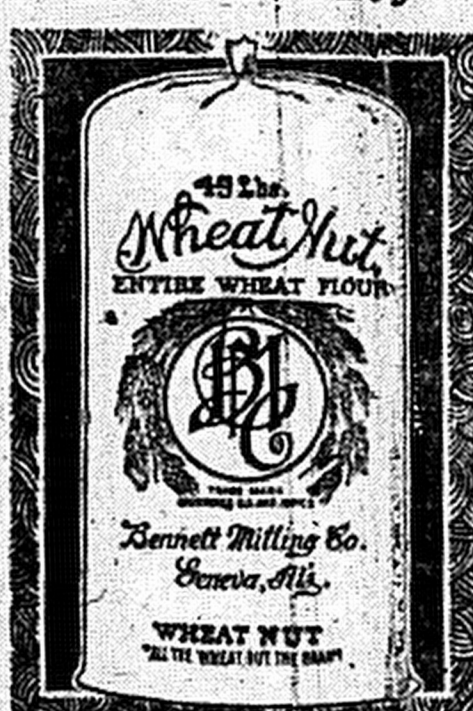

The Confirmation Class.
Those in the class to be confirmed on the afternoon of Sunday, May 20, are the following: John La Verne Abens, Genevieve Katherine Abens, Joseph Barkus, Philip Bosseler, Walter Burk, Albert Brandon, Harry Carroll, Peter Alfred Collin, Elbert Case, Kathryn Chapman, Bernice Cox, Martha Condon, Leo Doane, Leo Davey, Eleanor Dietrich, Herbert Draw, Florence Durkin, Leo Egan, Kathleen Esser, Bernice Esser, Catherine Flannigan, Claude Fletcher, John Friedrich, Carl Greiter, Pauline Greiter, Victor Robert Groner, Clifford Hickey.

HOUSEHOLD WASTE OF MILK IS COSTLY

The Half-cup of Milk Thrown Away in the Average Home Is No Trifling Matter.

U. S. Bulletin Warns of Wasteful Food Losses Thru This Reckless Custom.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Half a cup of milk—whole, skimmed or sour—is seemingly trifling matter—hardly worth the trouble to keep or use.

In many households quite a little milk is wasted—left uncovered in glasses—regarded as useless because the cream has been skimmed off—allowed to sour—poured down the sink or thrown out.

Now if every home—there are 20,000,000 of them—should waste on the average one-half cup daily, it would mean a waste of 2,500,000 quarts daily—212,500,000 quarts a year—the total product of more than 400,000 cows.

It takes a lot of grass and grain to make that much milk—and an army of people to produce and deliver it. But, every householder doesn't waste a half cup of milk a day. Well, say that one-half cup is wasted in only one out of 100 homes. Still intolerable—when milk is so nutritious—when skim milk can be used in making nutritious soups and cereal dishes—when sour milk can be used in bread making or for cottage cheese. The United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., or your state agricultural college will tell you how to use leftover milk—sweet, skimmed or sour.

You can't blame a man for acting foolish when he is making his milk-speech.

SHOWS A 'GYM' CAN BE BUILT

Mrs. Detweiler Explains How West High Could Get Needed Improvement.

FAVORS A CENTRAL HIGH

Editor, The Beacon-News: A newspaper controversy between members of a school board would seem to imply warfare in the ranks. Such is by no means the case, but there are many opinions, sometimes on school issues as there are members of the board; this is a free country, with free speech and a free press, so why not?

Two in Bloomington four days this week and did not see my letter in print and do not remember just what I wrote. I think I said that if we raised our tax five mills it would give us an additional $18,000 for immediate use—to be exact it would be $18,227.29. The state allows us 2 per cent for school purposes; half for administration and half for buildings.

"An assumed valuation of this district last year was $3,527,655. (It will be greater next year because we have enlarged our school district.) If we raise our tax to the 5 per cent limit it would give us $109,729.74. Last year our school tax was $261. If we raise it five mills it would make the rate .0211 which is a trifle beyond the limit so we can't raise it a full five mills. But, out of our last year's school fund we paid, in addition to our regular expenses, several thousand dollars on the Greenman school outside of the bonds and interest. Therefore I contend that we might have the full income from five mills of the tax, which would be about $18,000, by raising our tax to 5 per cent. (Greenman's school tax last year was .029; St. Charles', .0294; Batavia's, .0284; is not our district as rich as these?)

With present conditions, conservatism is imperative and I do not advocate building beyond our means, either or our means. Enlargement of the high school, however, is an absolute necessity if we are to conserve the health of our children, and I deem it better to conserve and conserve them to do the very best we can with the money at our disposal, and to build not for one year at a time, but for ten, at least. Building schools by bonding is not business economy, if it can possibly be done in any other way. A $75,000 building, bonded for 20 years at 4 per cent, costs $106,000. Is not $31,000 an exorbitant interest for the public to pay on a $75,000 building? Is it fair to our children to shoulder that debt upon them? There is no higher authority in this country in school affairs than Dr. Leonard P. Ayres of the Russell Foundation in New York city. Dr. Ayres was employed by Springfield, in 1914, to make a survey of their schools, and the result is now in book form. This is what the committee, headed by Dr. Ayres, reports on the old custom of bonding for school buildings:

"Unless the board is to find itself intolerably burdened with debt in the future it must hold fast to the policy of paying as it goes now. It is a popular theory that future generations will benefit by the permanent improvements that we make now but in the main this theory is fallacious. Posterity will not benefit by our permanent improvements much more than we benefit by the permanent improvements of our forefathers. Most of the public improvements in this city or elsewhere made as much as 30 years ago are now out of date that we are thinking of replacing them. A public bond issue is not merely a debt to be paid but dangerously near to a perpetual tax. In making permanent improvements by issuing bonds, we are not lending to posterity but borrowing from it. It is hard to justify this action (bonding for schools) on any amount of prudent financing. It seems to have benefited nobody but the bankers who handled the funds. School funds should be administered for the benefit of the citizens and not of the bankers. If anyone could foresee a time when the city would complete the development of its school system and get third building new buildings, it might be wise to spread the payments for the last few buildings over a series of years. This situation does not exist in Springfield.

And this situation does not exist in Aurora. Citizens all over the country are having these extensive school surveys. Are we not to study the conditions and profit by the experiences of others? I believe that we should have a first class gymnasium in our high school just as soon as we can pay for it by direct tax, and I would have it open evenings under a supervisor, as well as day time. I believe we could pay for it in two years by increasing our tax just five mills, unless a prolonged war develops unlooked-for conditions in this country. Moreover, I fully expect to live long enough to see our present high schools. East and West, used as junior high schools with one fine, large, well-equipped school for both districts on the island—even then we shall have to make the island upon which to build it.

JUG OF WHISKY KEPT IN SYCAMORE CHURCH

A jug filled with whisky, well proofed with age, is plastered in a wall of the Congregational church at Sycamore. Sycamore is a dry town. The secret of the jug came out at a preparedness meeting. Ald. Charles H. Buell, one of the speakers, spoke of the old days in Sycamore. He told of his father making brick on the farm and that when the Congregational church was constructed his father donated some brick.

He said: "The brick were laid, but here's the point: one of the bricklayers who required a jug of whisky at his side when he started to work mornings, in order to get safely thru the day, finished his job on the basement early in the morning and as he expected to do no more work that day, he plastered up his jug in the basement and it has been buried there since."

Charles Beach, who resides across the street from the church, was surprised to learn that a jug of whisky was buried in the church and he announced that he will be waiting with a shotgun to get any person who dares to show up for the purpose of desecrating the church to get the jug of whisky.

Right at Your Finger Tips

A better position.

A good investment.

A bargain in real estate.

A loan on your real estate.

A good partner.

You have but to turn to the want ad section of this paper to find these things together with many others—things essential to the success of men and women, young and old. Are you getting the highest prices for your brains, talent or muscle? You can soon tell by keeping in touch with the quotations of the employers in the "Help Wanted" column daily. For nowadays the successful employer uses the want ads—a much better way than the old sign on the door that was read only by those who came looking for it.

Is your money properly invested? For those who do invest no guide is more complete than the want ad page, whether it be stocks or bonds, city or farm property, live stock or what? To sell property or to find bargains in property no medium does the work quite so well as the want ads. Custom has placed real estate advertising in the want ad section and if you would buy, there you should look and if you would sell, there you should advertise.

The latter day housewife finds that she can conduct her household much more successfully by using the want ads for the simple reason she has but to look among them to find the right servants and has but to advertise among them to turn the household articles that she has discarded, into money. The farmer has adopted the want ad along with the other modern ways of doing things. It helps to solve his help problems; sells his used implements, buggies, wagons and harnesses, his seed corn, his live stock, his poultry and his eggs for hatching; and attracts larger crowds to his public sales.

The want ads are part of the cogs in the business machinery of the up-to-date real estate dealer. His ability will close the deals but the want ads are absolutely necessary in finding the prospects. The tradesman, the tinkerer, the home baker, the small contractor, the man or woman with the small business and the like will find the want ads inexpensive business stimulators.

For those in business, advertising was never more essential than it is right now. Waving a red flag at this stage of the game is like putting on ear muffs today because there may be a cold day next December. With a slogan—"London, Business as Usual"—London merchants have continued to keep the boat from rocking thru two years of war and have kept things so by continuing to advertise. The greatest barometer of prosperity is the want ad section, help to keep it on the "Fair" side.

Crowd of 60,000 Sees Omar Khayyam Win Classic Over Track at Louisville.

GOVERNOR MAKES ADDRESS

(The International News Service.)

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 12.—Omar Khayyam, an English bred colt, owned by C. K. G. Billings and Fredrick Johnson, won the Kentucky derby, America's most spectacular racing event, before the largest crowd that ever witnessed the annual classic this afternoon.

Andrew Miller's ticket finished second and Midway, a Kentucky colt, slipped in from last place and finished third. There were 15 starters.

The race was worth $10,000 to the winner.

Win Race in Last Stretch. Omar laid off the early pace, but when they swung into the stretch with Harry Payne Whitney's Hickey leading, Omar mounted thru on the inside and came with a straight win thru the stretch.

Omar had received heavy backing from western sporting men.

War Star and Star Master led in the early stages. Rickety made a strong bid when they hit the stretch, but lost ground going wide at the turn.

The ceremonies preceding the running of the derby were marked by patriotic exercises.

Crowd Rings "Star Spangled Banner." Governor Stanley delivered a patriotic speech and flag raising ceremony was participated in by the first Kentucky regiment.

Sixty thousand spectators joined in the chorus of "The Star Spangled Banner." For the crowd were many visitors from the east and a big delegation from Chicago, Cuba and Mexico.

Penn Relays May Be Discontinued. (The International News Service.) Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.—The Penn relays, which have been held since 1911, in the event that the war, into which America is now plunging, lasts thru another year and a great majority of the college athletes are called to the colors, it is probable that the plan will be dropped, which after 22 years has become one of the foremost amateur athletic events in the country, will be held solely for school teams.

The Penn management will hardly believe the rumor that the relays can be found to avoid doing so. For the sake of the future the Quakers will stage the "relays" in almost any form in the Cleveland club has written the plans of the opposing teams for a plying duel between the brothers.

Harry Coveleskie Will Hurl Against Brother. (The International News Service.) Detroit, Mich., May 12.—A mutual of Harry Coveleskie of the Detroit Americans to pitch against his brother, Stanley, of the Cleveland club, was written the plans of the opposing teams for a plying duel between the brothers.

It isn't because I'm afraid that Stanley will knock me out," says Harry, explaining his stand. "But I rather not pitch against him."

Harry Jennings, manager of the Tigers, says he will respect Harry's wishes.

Hackett To Defend Title In the East

Harold H. Hackett

(The International News Service.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 12.—Chicago's Cubs held the crowd down today with a clean sweep of the series against Brooklyn's alleged champions by winning the fourth and last game today, 1 to 0, in a desperate pitching duel between Tom Seaver and Jeff Pfeffer.

The Cubs had the better of the three games and came in on Doyle's sacrifice fly.

The Cubs were handicapped today in the last game of the series against the Brooklyn champions. Doyle, chief star of the team, was laid up with a lame ankle, and Harry Wolter was on the bench suffering with a charleyhorse. Zelder, who had pitched yesterday and during the night, it showed up as Manager Mitchell thought he had better let it rest a day or two.

Bad weather and bad playing by the Cubs held the crowd down today about 6,000 were present, although it was Saturday.

CUBS CLEAN UP ON THE DODGERS

Mitchell's Men Take Fourth Straight Game From League Champions 2 to 1.

SEATON GIVES THREE HITS

(The International News Service.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 12.—Chicago's Cubs held the crowd down today with a clean sweep of the series against Brooklyn's alleged champions by winning the fourth and last game today, 1 to 0, in a desperate pitching duel between Tom Seaver and Jeff Pfeffer.

The Cubs had the better of the three games and came in on Doyle's sacrifice fly.

The Cubs were handicapped today in the last game of the series against the Brooklyn champions. Doyle, chief star of the team, was laid up with a lame ankle, and Harry Wolter was on the bench suffering with a charleyhorse. Zelder, who had pitched yesterday and during the night, it showed up as Manager Mitchell thought he had better let it rest a day or two.

Bad weather and bad playing by the Cubs held the crowd down today about 6,000 were present, although it was Saturday.

NOW THE TIME TO BUY TIRES

Prices of Materials Going Up
May Compel an Increase in Wheel Cushions.

LABOR SUPPLY BIG PROBLEM

Now is the time to buy tires and save money. If prices of materials continue to soar tire manufacturers will be compelled to announce another increase within the next few weeks. Jesse Froelich, a man prominent in the industry, stated yesterday: "We have been brought to realize that our entire output of rubber comes from outside the United States or her territories," he said.

"Enough rubber could be grown in the Philippines to supply the needs of the United States, but this is impossible, since our laws prevent the importation of coolie labor into United States territory. The cost would be too great to employ white men for rubber cultivation."

"The United States consumes 160,000 tons of crude rubber yearly. On a basis of $1.50 a ton America could gain a business of $225,000,000 yearly by cultivating rubber in the Philippines."

"Likewise our cotton comes from other shores. We grow plenty of ordinary cotton in America, and some long staple cotton, but not enough of the latter to meet our needs."

"Last year cotton cost from 60 cents for the best grades of Sea Island to the present price of $1.50 a pound."

DON'T TAKE ROUGH HILL ON HIGH GEAR

Drop Into "Second" So That Speed May Be Kept at Comfortable and Safe Speed.

Advice Should Be Given Particular
Need by Owners of Relatively Low Powered Cars.

Many modern cars possess such an immense reserve of power that all ordinary hills can be surmounted by them on high gear, at almost any desired speed, simply by throttle control, but with the average relatively low powered car, hills severe enough to call for some driving skill and for some gear-changing are occasionally encountered, particularly in touring over unimproved roads. Indeed, there are hills occasionally met with which hardly any car, however heavily powered, can reasonably be expected to ascend on direct drive. The following suggestions are offered particularly to owners of low and moderate powered cars, who have had little experience in cross country touring, when approaching the foot of a hill speed up the car somewhat with the throttle in order that it may not be brought to a stop and keep opening the throttle as the grade is reached to maintain a rate of speed at which the engine is powerful and efficient. If the hill is quite rough as to road surface, don't try to take it on "high," but drop into "second," so that car speed may be kept down to a safe and comfortable point. When climbing on direct drive, as the grade increases open the throttle and try to maintain the desired speed, but do not let the speed fall below say 12 miles per hour, with the throttle wide open. When this occurs drop into second speed and thus save time and fuel and avoid needless wear and tear of the engine. This applies particularly to four cylinder cars. Unless automatic spark control is provided, do not let the engine slow down to a very low speed, on open throttle without retarding the ignition. Changes from a higher to a lower gear must be made quickly and deftly, if the momentum of the car is not sacrificed and some practice is required before prompt and noiseless changes can be infallibly made. Such "downward" changes are best made by double-clutching (previously described in these columns). In approaching a hill that is known to be too steep to be taken on "high" it is better to change to second just before beginning the ascent.

WILLYS-OVERLAND MEN FORM MOTOR RESERVE

The movement among Willys-Overland dealers throughout the country to form motor reserve corps companies, composed of Willys-Overland cars and expert drivers, for service in connection with the mobilization of state military units and home protection, is rapidly assuming national importance. Among the more recent to take up the idea is the Los Angeles dealer. The plan has the approval of the factory officials and military authorities.

E. R. Carhart, president of the Carhart Motor company, Oklahoma Willys-Overland distributor, is said to have been the originator of the plan. His object was to facilitate and expedite the mobilization of state troops in emergency cases.

PRINTED STATIONERY PAYS.
What about that up-to-date farm stationery you were to have had made? You haven't heard of two farmers who happened to apply at about the same time for loans from a trust company. Farmer A had printed stationery and wrote his letter on a typewriter; Farmer B, just as well off as A in this world's goods, used a pencil and scratch paper, and wrote on both sides of the sheet. The result was B's letter made so had an impression that he experienced considerable delay and trouble in getting his loan, while A's was granted almost immediately. In getting results from correspondence, the neatly written letter on printed stationery is as far superior to a pencil scrawl on a piece of scratch paper as a 12 cylinder automobile is to an expert—Progressive Farmer.

FORD STEEL MUST PASS HIGH TEST

The Ford Motor company has recognized along with other motor car manufacturers that quality in the automobile chassis is determined by the strength of the material of which it is constructed and the simplicity of design.

The correctness of Ford design is demonstrated in the fact that since 1905 more than 1,500,000 Ford cars have been built on the unchanged model T chassis.

For strength of material the most important factor in a motor car is the character of steel that goes into its working parts.

In the case of Ford steel the material is first tested at its source. Steel in the great rolling mills, still in billet form, must conform to very definite requirements if it is to become a part of Ford cars. That is why, nearly every day, a shipment of samples taken from each "heat" at the steel mills, arrives at the laboratory in Detroit to be analyzed by the staff of chemists and physicists.

The results determine the fate of the steel. If it meets the requirements in every degree, the rolling mills are instructed to proceed and the rolled product goes to forging plants, sheet mills and elsewhere. From each of these points in turn samples travel to the home laboratory, and careful checks are made of each bit of material furnished. Anything which fails to meet the rigid specifications is not allowed to go further.

It is by keeping high the standards of quality for Ford cars that more than 2,000,000 are today in operation.

NO LET UP IN DEMAND FOR HUDSON SUPER-SIX

There is no let-up in the demand for Hudson cars and every week our sales show an increase over last season," says Henry Hump, president of the Hudson Motor Car company of New York.

"Not only is the motor in our Hudson Super-Six car the most efficient power plant ever installed by the Hudson company, but the special radiator shutter incorporated in the hood of our car is a wonderful shield over the car, and the car is probably the most economical six-cylinder car on the market."

A few weeks ago, out on the coast, our San Francisco dealer offered prizes for an economy contest open to Hudson owners when some remarkable records were made. "The first five cars in this contest were equipped with the shutter attachment and averaged 22.7 miles to a gallon of gasoline. The contest was held for Super-Six owners and 47 entrants averaged 17.7 miles to a gallon of gasoline. It was the winning San Francisco to San Jose and returning a distance of 100 miles. "Sixty was the limit with an average of 22.7 miles a gallon. This remarkable performance, however, exceeds any claims we can fairly make for normal Super-Six performance."

"In this contest the cars were checked in and out, and the gasoline tanks were sealed under the supervision of newspaper men. The trophy cup of silver, 22 inches in height, was awarded to Mr. Oliva at an informal dinner given to the 92 participants in the contest."

If your enemy is too big to whip, you should forgive him.

HAVE THE HABIT.

"Have you any late trains out here?" asked the prospective purchaser.

"Sure," replied the suburban real estate agent. "All our trains are generally late."—Philadelphia Record.

Style

Strength
Service
Smoothness
Satisfaction

—the things which enhance the pleasures and comforts of motoring, are combined in the Eight Cylinder Cadillac to an extent that is found only in a Cadillac.

The reason that so many people are willing to pay the Cadillac price when there are so many cheaper cars to be had is because they want the superior smoothness and steadiness and constancy, the superior comfort, the superior service and the superior satisfaction which only the Cadillac affords.

There are available for this territory this season a few more Cadillacs. Think it over.

KEEPING BOOKS ON AUTO HELPS

Special Accounting Has Value
In That It Tends Towards Economy.

OWNER SOON FINDS WASTE

The keeping of an accurate record of all expenses chargeable to the ownership and operation of a motor car is well worth while, considering the very slight trouble which it entails. Like all special accounting, it tends in a general way toward economy, in that it enables the total expenditure for any required period of time to be calculated and compared with that of any other similar period. It also enables an owner to determine in what respects his practice is less economical than it should be. For instance, whether his tire, repair or fuel bill is inordinately large during one month, or whether he is out of proportion to that of some other owner, who also keeps an account. Moreover, it permits an owner who changes from one car to another to determine which car is the cheaper to operate. A few pages reserved in the memorandum book, that nearly every man carries in his pocket suffices for the entry of all such expenditures with date, nature of the outlay and amount. All other expenditures can later be copied from the bill and added to the account. On the first of each month or other at regular intervals, the account should be read and entered in the book. At the end of each month, the items of expense can be categorized, such as fuel, lubricants, tire repairs, garaging, fixed charges (insurance, registration, etc.), and such others as the character of the service requires and the total outlay for each, during the month, can be made a matter of record. At the end of the year, the owner will be able to tell exactly what his outlay has been for each item of maintenance and by dividing the total outlay for all purposes by the number of miles run, he can obtain the per mile cost of operation. Of course, in order to obtain an accurate record of expenditure, it is a genuine interest in cost keeping, he will soon form the habit of "chalking down" every expenditure, no matter how trivial.

TO SEE LINCOLN ALL ALONG ROAD

Busts of Great Leader to Be on Every Court House Lawn
on Lincoln Highway.

A bust of Abraham Lincoln is to be placed in the Geneva court house yard by the national officers of the Lincoln Highway association. William McCullough, president of the Aurora Automobile club, received word of the planned work from officers of the association, who said that a bust of Lincoln is to be placed in the yard of every court house on the Lincoln highway.

THE DEADLY GRADE CROSSING

There is no more deadly menace to the safety of the motorist than the grade crossings of highways with railroads, and every car owner should "do his bit" to eliminate them. They are far more dangerous to the motor car user than to the horse driver, because the hum of the motor drowns the sound of approaching trains and because the motorist is habitually in a hurry and is prone to take chances that a horse driver would never take. There is no effective remedy for this frightful evil except to abolish the grade crossing and every automobile owner should do his utmost to secure the required legislation and the necessary public appropriations to bring about this result for great as is the present sacrifice of life and limb at crossings, it is bound to increase with the growth of motor traffic. A country-wide abolition of grade crossings is not an immediate possibility, on account of the colossal cost involved, but the widespread elimination of these death traps in cities and towns on the main arteries of motor travel is within the realm of possibility. Pending this much desired consummation, there are temporary and partial remedies that should be demanded and if this cannot be secured the services of a flagman are better than nothing. Given the installation of automatic crossing-bells offers some slight degree of protection and the posting of signs on country roads warning the motorist that he is approaching a crossing is of some protective value. The motoring public should demand the clearing away of trees and other removable objects, which tend to produce "blind crossing." If each individual motorist will do his utmost to arouse local public opinion against dangerous crossings in his particular district, the aggregate effect will be immense and will soon make itself apparent in the abolition or safeguarding of these danger spots.

NEEDED CHURCH MOST.
The soldiers marched to the church and halted in the square outside. One wing of the edifice was undergoing repair, so there was room only for about half the regiment.
"Sergeant," ordered the colonel, "tell the men who don't want to go to church to fall out."
A large number quickly availed themselves of the privilege.
"Now, sergeant," said the colonel, "dismiss all the men who did not fall out and march the others to church—they need it most."—English Exchange.

GIVES THE HORSE FIVE YEARS MORE

Burden Bearer of Centuries
Soon a Curiosity Upon City Streets, Seiberling Says.

Goodrich Company Chief Points Out
How Long Cotton and Rubber Supply Can Be Maintained.

"In five years from now a horse will be a curiosity in our cities," President F. A. Seiberling, of the Goodrich Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, said in a recent interview.
"The automobile will be with us forever," he said. "It is here because it fills an economic need. There is nothing transitory, nothing ephemeral about the growth of the great automobile industry and its companion, the tire industry."
"It is natural that America cannot always move at top speed. This country cannot always be at the peak. It must take a dip sometime, but when it does, the rubber industry will be less affected than a great many others."

Labor Chief Rubber Expense.
"Two great needs have been emphasized by the war. We have been brought to realize that our entire supply of rubber comes from outside the United States or her territories. Likewise our long staple cotton comes from other shores. We grow plenty of cotton in America, but not enough of the latter to meet our needs."

The Goodyear company has already taken vigorous action toward protecting its supply of both crude rubber and cotton. We are cultivating rubber plantations in Sumatra and are planting in Arizona 10,000 acres of the most long staple cotton ever sown in the world. In Connecticut we have our own cotton mills where our cotton is woven into the fabric that we use in our products. "These examples illustrate the long look that we are taking into the future of the rubber business. We could grow enough plantation rubber in the Philippines to supply all the needs of the United States. But this is impossible since our laws prevent the importation of codable labor into United States territory. The white man cannot endure the tropical climate of the rubber growing countries, and if he could the cost would be too great. The principal cost in rubber cultivation is labor expense."

Philippines Great Rubber Country.
"At present the United States consumes 150,000 tons of crude rubber yearly. On a price basis of $1,500 a ton, the United States could gain a business worth $225,000,000 yearly, by cultivating rubber in the Philippines. "At our factory, we are working out another problem that many American manufacturers are puzzling over—the housing of labor. We are encouraging our workmen to establish homes. We believe big problems are better worked out by home owners than home renters. We like to have married men in our factory. They are stable and willing to accept responsibilities."

"As a practical evidence of our viewpoint, we are building 1,000 homes to be sold to our workers, who have 20 years to pay for them on the basis of rent. These are not the usual 'company houses,' but modern homes, with architectural individuality, conforming to the latest ideas of home building. Through a special insurance feature, title to the property passes to the heirs of the employee in case of his death before the home is fully paid for."

MAXWELL TEST EXCITES NOTE

Dealers Thru Country to Compete for $5,000 In Economy Tests.

TO MAKE CAR CLAIMS GOOD

One of the most gigantic economy tests in the history of the automobile is being planned by the Maxwell Motor company to substantiate its claim to the low operating up-keep championship of the industry. Toward 2,000 Maxwell distributors and dealers will soon carry out in every state in the union and throughout the eight provinces of Canada a public and wholesale demonstration of the Maxwell's ability to stretch its fuel into the greatest known mix of gasoline and motor oil distance. "Five thousand dollars in cash prizes will be given away among the dealers. It is made known, together with an award of the national Maxwell economy championship cup. The cup is to be the trophy of the Maxwell dealer who attains the highest mileage to be recorded in the event, and with it he will also capture a substantial award in gold. The public and widespread demonstration is to be known as the national Maxwell economy proof day, and the wholesale contest is to take place Wednesday, May 23.

Owners' cars are to be used exclusively, the rules providing that each dealer entering agrees to arrange for the use of two Maxwell five-passenger touring cars now in owner service. These he will borrow for the day. In each car there must be, according to the rules, four full-grown passengers; the driver and three of his observers. In each town and city the two cars will make the run together, each carrying its observers. Who thus will check not only their own mount but the other as well.

Results will be unofficial. It is stated, if the dealer participant fails to arrange for his observers to be either newspaper men, motor club or board of commerce representatives or well known public officials. Two one-gallon gasoline cans are to be provided each dealer participant. These will attach to the windshield. Instructions mailed broadcast by the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation, Detroit, point out that the records will be disqualified unless the gasoline used is measured into the can on each of the two cars by one of more of the official observers arranged for.

In each instance the report of the dealer and his observers are forwarded to the Maxwell general offices in Detroit must bear the affidavit of the three observers. Otherwise it will not be accepted as official by the Maxwell company.
Prizes are to be given under five dealer classifications. The top award in each classification is $200 in gold, with a second prize of $100 in gold. The third, fourth and fifth prizes will be $100 in gold each. Then follow two $75 and three $50 awards, making ten in all for each of the five groups.

Just two men now produce more than $300,000 in additional yearly output in the Willow-Overland factory with the help of four magnetic grinders, used to machine and polish push rods for Overland Big Four motors. This is a typical example of the vast economies made possible thru enormous production in the automobile industry.

At the present time these men can grind 242 push rods simultaneously on their magnetic grinders—so-called because the push rods are held in place on steel plates by magnetic force.
One man operates two machines. The daily output of the two men and four machines is 3,600 ground and polished push rods.

Before the installation of this equipment each push rod was laboriously ground by hand. The machining and polishing of 600 to 700 push rods was then considered a big day's work for these two men. This product, besides requiring more time, was not to be compared with the present output for finish and accuracy.

To this additional production can be added the yearly saving of thousands of dollars in push rods that had to be scrapped in the earlier days because of inaccurate grinding and machining, now reduced to a minimum because of the minute accuracy of modern equipment.

QUARTER'S OVERLAND

STOP ALL WHEELS IF STUCK IN MUD

Don't Try to Get Out by Spinning Machinery of Your Automobile.

"Corduroy Road" Can Be Built Quickly Under Wheels Which Have Lost Their Traction.

The following suggestions are offered for the benefit of those motorists whose cars may become mired in the mud holes with which unimproved roads are infested, particularly in the spring. The moment it becomes apparent that the car is "stuck," first the spinning of the wheels should be avoided, as they will only dig into the mud more hopelessly. In deep, soft mud ordinary tire chains are usually of very limited value, but a regular "mud-hook" or two, on each wheel, may enable a car to get itself out. These are on the market and are not very cumbersome to carry. If there is a long stretch of muddy going, into which the car has just entered, it may be best to back out and take another road, but if there is simply an isolated mud hole, it may be best to go ahead. Generally the best thing to do is to try to build a sort of corduroy road under the wheel or wheels that have lost traction. To do this it is necessary to jack up the wheel and for this purpose a large board, fence rail or a large flat stone is required as a foundation for the jack. When the wheel is raised, the rat it has made out sometimes he filled with stones and tree branches can be cut and laid crosswise under the wheel over the muddy space. If this is well done the car will usually obtain sufficiently good footing to lead to its extrication. In case planks or fence rails are available in sufficient quantity, they should be arranged under the wheels and are better than tree branches. Should a long stout rope be available, it can sometimes be used, as follows, to pull a car out. Drive a stake securely into the ground at some distance forward of the car and fasten one end of the rope to it. Take a turn or two of the rope around one of the rear wheel hubs and get someone to hold the free end. Upon starting the wheels the rope will wind around the hub and pull the car slowly along toward the stake.

GOOD BEHAVIOR ONLY.
If conscience does not make cowards of many German subjects in the United States, what other reason can be given for the urgent inquiries as to their status here in war, which once again have been answered authoritatively from the White House.

The subject of Germany or of Austria-Hungary or of Turkey is safer in the United States than he would be at home, on one condition. He must respect the laws of the United States, and unless he chances to be truculent or criminal, nobody will cross his path. There is a single test for all foreigners in this country today, and that is good behavior.

Appeals have been coming frequent of late from Berlin foreign offices for reaffirmation by the United States of the treaties of 1755, 1799 and 1823, all of which Germany has violated in this war. If these engagements had been observed by Germany, war with the United States would be impossible. In one respect only are they binding. When we pledged protection to German subjects and German property in the United States, in case of war, we meant it, and the obligation persists.

German subjects must not misuse this hospitality. German property must not be employed in support of the enemy. That is all.—New York World.

The Business of Being a Housewife

By Jean Prescott Adams

If you have questions to ask or special subjects that you wish to discuss in this column, write to Mrs. Adams, care of this office, and she will gladly take them up. If your difficulties are too personal, or lack general interest, Mrs. Adams will reply by letter, if a stamp is enclosed for answer.

Women the nation over are fired with a great desire to help. Many are groping about in the dark because of lack of definite knowledge regarding their own business. This shows glaringly in the spontaneous recommendations given by some as to cutting down table costs. At this time we need to have facts to work on.

One woman is reported as saying she saves in every way and finds celery tops such a saving as they make such delicious soup. This same woman uses only the soup from a piece of soup meat, throwing away all the rest. You've heard the story about "stone soup." So far as real food value is concerned the celery tops supply about as much as the stone. Dried celery tops to be sure are splendid for flavor and every woman should have a supply of them. She should, however, know just what she saves them for. In real food scarcity times, celery itself is somewhat of a luxury as it supplies so little body building material.

Real Economy.
The true economy in this case would be to cook all soup meat as to have both a meat dish and a soup. That is, put the meat on in boiling water to sear, and keep the juices in. Then simmer the meat until done. Add cereal or vegetables and flavoring which may be a bit of dried celery tops, to the stock and serve as soup. If a stronger meat flavor is desired add one-half teaspoonful of extract of beef. Serve the meat with a rich brown sauce as the main course. All the real food value is in the meat itself. That is the body tissue builder. The fat of meat gives us heat and energy and reserve force. The soup has only stimulating and flavor value.

If you do not own a meat part telling of how to prepare all the cuts, write Mrs. Adams, care of The Beacon-News, and she will forward them to you.

Hominy.

The sturdy founders of our nation ate hominy—found it delicious. The tedious preparation is now taken care of commercially so that you can enjoy it often.

Hominy is truly an American dish. The Indians were eating hominy long before a white man saw America. The first colonists found it wholesome, appetizing, strength-giving, nutritious and adopted it as their own.

It was introduced into Europe as a rare and costly delicacy. In the early days a large part of our people considered it among the most delicious of our native foods.

The producer of the standard brand has preserved all its goodness as prepared by our grandmothers and placed it on your table without the long, tedious hours of preparation once necessary to give our ancestors this palatable food.

To prepare hominy properly, it takes many hours of slow, careful cooking, and several changes of water. For this reason many people do not know this wholesome and delicious food. All this work is done in this ready-to-serve food which found such great favor with our fathers.

Hominy should be the whole grain of white Indian corn cooked first in lye water and then three times with repeated washings. It comes to you with the old-fashioned flavor and with all of the thoro preparation. It is first cooked for 45 minutes, which loosens the outer horny-like husk of the corn; and then it is thoroughly washed in clear water before being again cooked for 40 minutes, and washed again. After this second washing, it is given a third cooking of 55 minutes and then given a final cleaning before being hermetically sealed in the big cans in which you receive it.

After being placed in the cans, it is subjected to a final cooking of an hour and ten minutes in superheated steam, which thoroughly softens the entire kernel and preserves the light fluffiness.

Some of our grandmothers' recipes are supplied, giving you a variety to choose from.

Hominy and Ham Soup.
2 cups hominy.
2 cups ham stock.
2 cups milk or 1/2 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup water.
1 1/2 cups of water.
2 tablespoons ham fat.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon grated onion seasonings.
Chop hominy, heat in ham stock, add milk. Melt fat, add flour and seasonings. Add hot liquid gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Serve with parsley cut fine and sprinkled over top of each dish. Saltiness of the ham stock must be considered and the seasoning carefully done.

Hominy Croquettes.
4 cups chopped hominy, or 3 cups hominy and 1 cup fish, ham or other meat chopped fine.
2 cups thick white sauce.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon white pepper.
1 teaspoon scraped onion.
Melt fat, add flour, add milk gradually, stir and cook until thick and smooth.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica Department

Our Plan of—

"You use the books while you are paying for them"

—made necessary this special Encyclopaedia Britannica department

We have sold over 100,000 sets of the "Handy Volume" Issue, almost 90% of which has been purchased on our "use them while you pay for them" plan—$1.00 with order and balance in conveniently small monthly payments for a limited number of months.

William Allen White, the noted journalist, in a recent letter about the Encyclopaedia Britannica said, "I like your plan because it makes the buyer use his books as he pays for them. For, when a man has a monthly payment, he has a constant reminder to get his money's worth—and what is good also, it puts the Britannica within easy reach of all."

This method is so popular—this demand for the Britannica is so great that we had to develop and organize the special Britannica department pictured above to take care of the thousands upon thousands of orders and the great work of taking care of each customer's account.

With all this interest in this most wonderful book of practical help in everyday affairs—do you wonder that we should say, "We know we could sell many thousands more sets of this 'Handy Volume' Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, if we could get them."

We cannot get any more because no more India paper can be manufactured. The war has made it impossible to get any more flax from Belgium, Germany or Ireland and the hemp from Russia, two essential raw materials.

At the close of Saturday, May 26th, —thirteen days from today—(possibly a day or two before that) there will not be an unsold set of the "Handy Volume" Issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, in the entire world.

NOW or NEVER you must decide whether or not you need, as a practical everyday help to you in your business and in your home, this most authoritative, most reliable, all-inclusive reference library of essential facts.

NOW or NEVER you must go to the store named below and see the entire set, see if it will be useful to you and decide.

M. C. SAWYER
FOX and WATER STREETS

This means just one thing—the sale of the "Handy Volume" Issue of the Britannica, printed on India paper, cannot possibly last longer than Saturday, May 26th. There are only thirteen days (possibly only nine or ten) left in which you can order with any certainty of being in time to get one of the few remaining sets.

As Saturday, May 26th, comes nearer, we are going to be stampeded with orders. Our descriptive matter is now in the hands of hundreds of thousands of people who are thinking of buying the Britannica. We have not enough sets now in stock to supply all who will order in the next two weeks.

Now you know why we say that thousands of people are going to be disappointed when the last set is sold—and be sorry they didn't decide to order before it was too late.

NOW or NEVER you must order your set, for you will never have another chance to own the Britannica in this its most useful, usable form. Time is flying! Now means NOW! Never means NEVER!

If you are unable to go to this store, but know that you need the Britannica—that it will be useful and a help to you—sign the coupon and mail it NOW. After Saturday, May 26th, money cannot possibly buy another set.

Those who cannot go to this store may use this "Reserve" Order Form, which will be legally binding upon us to reserve one set for you, just the same as if you ordered it in person.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., Chicago, Illinois

Now or Never!

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

THE FAIRY FROM COUNTY CORK

It is only what I've been told and there's no need to take it to heart," Tommy O'Brien's Mother always said, after she had told a fairy story. "And even if it really did happen—which I doubt—remember it happened in County Cork, not here in America."

Tommy O'Brien thought of County Cork when, after he had been sick in the hospital for some weeks, they sent him to the country and he saw green, wooded hills and wide meadows for the first time. He believed that if there were "little people" in County Cork, there must be some here—it was so sweet and solemn and different from the crowded city.

One day, as he lay in the grass, he thought he saw a Fairy no bigger than a gnat, swinging herself on a green grass stalk. Now Fairies are useful things to have if you are little and sick and your mother is a poor widow and there are two little sisters in the family besides. So Tommy, scarcely daring to breathe, cupped his hand and scooped up the Fairy—like a person would catch a fly. After a while he peeped between his fingers and found nothing but a little green stalk of grass in his hand. But, pshaw! He wasn't to be fooled that way—not he! He knew how all about Fairies and their tricks.

He ran in the house and got his pencil box, which was the only thing he owned that had a lock, and in it he locked up the little grass stalk.

Soon after this he had to go home. There were other sick little children who needed a chance to get strong in the country. So Tommy went Tommy, looking thin and white, with his great blue, Irish eyes, looking wider and bluer than ever—home to the dark room at the top of four flights of creaky stairs, on a noisy street where a child could scarcely see the sky even. But Tommy was glad to get home again.

"Luck is coming your way," he said to his Mother, with confidence, but he did not mention about the Fairy.

The very next day, Tommy decided to test his luck. He knew that he was not strong enough to go out and sell papers on the street, but he thought that he might be able to get a position in some office. So after his mother had gone to work, he took his grass stalk along and went out. He felt very weak but he walked on and on to the business part of town, trying to keep up his spirits by thinking of all the wonderful Irish Fairy stories his Mother had told him. Of course, one mustn't take them too much to heart, but just suppose it were all true and it was a real Fairy he was holding in his pocket? So Tommy thought, his last feeling very giddy, he leaned against a Post Box to rest and closed his eyes.

MOTHER'S DAY

OH JACKIE WILL WHISTLE AND MOLLY WILL SING
AND WE'LL ALL BE MERRY
AND OAY,
WE'LL WEAVE A SWEET WREATH
TO CROWN OUR DEAR QUEEN
TO CELEBRATE MOTHER'S DAY!

"I wish this was County Cork," he sighed.

"What's the matter, sonny?" asked a kind, deep voice.

Tommy opened his wide, blue eyes and looked into the kind, red face of an elderly gentleman.

"I'm all right, sir," answered the boy, "only kind of dizzy."

"Been sick?" inquired the stranger, with a keen glance at the little fellow.

"Yes, sir," said Tommy, "but I'm almost well now. I'm out looking for a job. I'm a lot older than I look."

"Well, well!" replied the stranger. "I think you ought to go home and rest now. Where do you live? I'll take you home in my car."

Tommy gave his address a little wistfully, adding, "Thank you, sir. Do you believe in the 'little people'?"

The stranger led the child to his waiting car, and placed him next to his own seat at the driving wheel.

"And who's been telling you about the 'little people'?" he asked.

"Mother has, sir," Tommy replied, leaning his head back comfortably.

"In County Cork there was a rose-bush full of Fairy folk!"

"In County Cork!" exclaimed the stranger. "Why, sure and I came from County Cork!"

Tommy stared and began feeling in his pocket. No Fairy grass stalk could he find. He stared at the strange gentleman.

"You-you aren't by any chance a Fairy, are you, sir?" he questioned eagerly.

"What, I? Do I look it, me boy?" laughed the stranger. "Now tell me, what was your mother's name before she married your father?"

"Mary McCarthy," replied Tommy. "She was a beautiful girl in County Cork, and, sure, she's beautiful yet."

"Mary McCarthy?" repeated the stranger. "Mary McCarthy?"

No more was said as the automobile rolled smoothly on and Tommy fell into a doze. They soon reached his humble home, and the big stranger carried the little boy upstairs. There sat Mrs. O'Brien and the two little girls, Mollie and Bess, all in tears.

"Sure, and I was so worried about my boy, I was about to send for the police!" cried Mrs. O'Brien. "I just came home for lunch and found the child gone, and he's been so sick!"

The stranger placed Tommy in the big arm chair, and then looked into Mrs. O'Brien's kind honest face. Tommy had said she was beautiful. Ah, well, she was in a way—in the way of a good, true woman and tender mother!

"Mary McCarthy," said the stranger. "Do you remember me?"

Mrs. O'Brien looked hard into the face of the stranger.

"There's a look in your eye that reminds me of a lad I used to know in County Cork, in Ireland," replied the woman. "Can you be?"

"Francis Dennis, for sure!" cried the big man. "Now don't say I've grown fat and old. You're son took me for a Fairy."

"Francis Dennis!" exclaimed Mrs.

O'Brien, holding out her hand. "Why we were children together in old County Cork, in Munster! I never expected to see you again!"

"Well, here I am!" cried Francis Dennis, in loud, cheery tones. "Here I am!"

So quick back up your things and come along. My car is waiting outside, and I've a fine big house in the country and a fine big farm, lacking just a housekeeper and some little ones."

Well to make a long story short, Mr. Dennis was as good as his word, and took all the O'Briens to his big farmhouse, where the children got plump and brown, and Mrs. O'Brien acted as housekeeper.

Tommy had found a real fairy.

A Secret Fact

I'd like to tell a secret fact To mothers everywhere. So they would just know how to act About our clothes and hair.

We like ourselves out on the lawn Without the lace and bows; With just a simple romper on And heaps of barefoot toes.

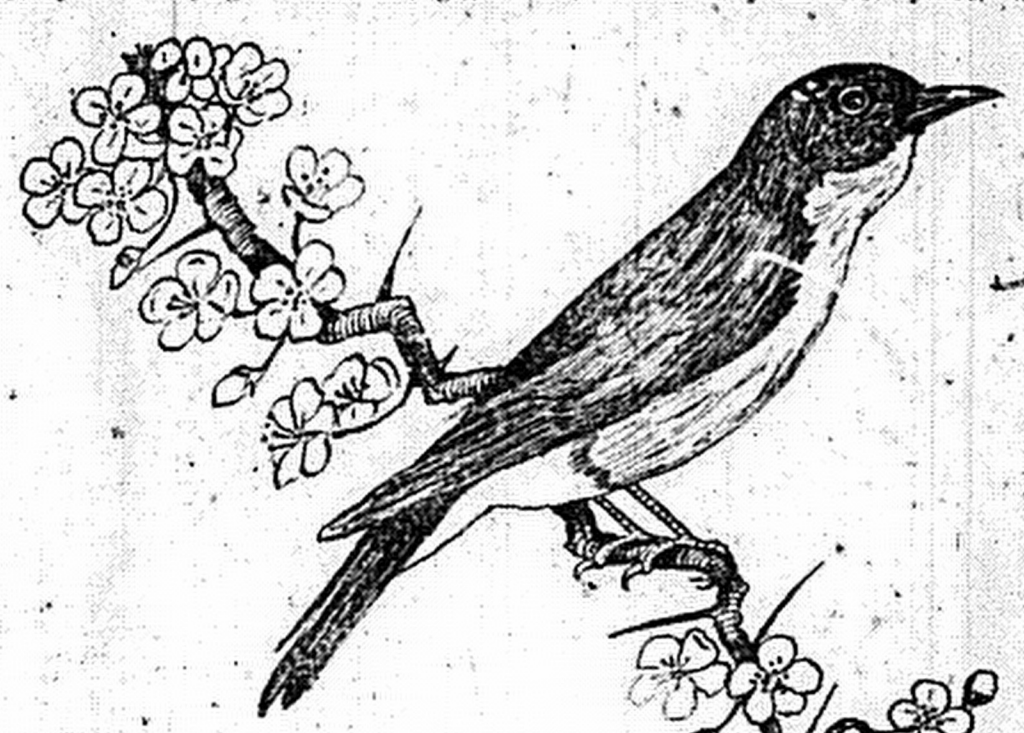

So when our mothers quite decide To dress us up like elves— I think we'll all just go and hide And let them dress themselves!

FROM THE VIEWPOINT OF A BLUEBIRD

I WOULD like to know what I have done that every cat, snake and not a few boys, are always camping on my trail, and trying to kill me? I attend to my own business, which is to eat all the worms I can find; build a nest in some out-of-the-way place, that nobody else could use; and raise my little yellow throat-babies, troubling no one. And when not busy with something else, I sing as loud as I can, and I am sure my voice is sweeter than some of the cracked phonographs I hear. And I know I am rather pretty to look at, with my back, wings and tail the color of the summer sky, throat and breast all cinnamon red, and under parts a snowy white. Why, I am just a little combination of the National colors—red, white and blue!

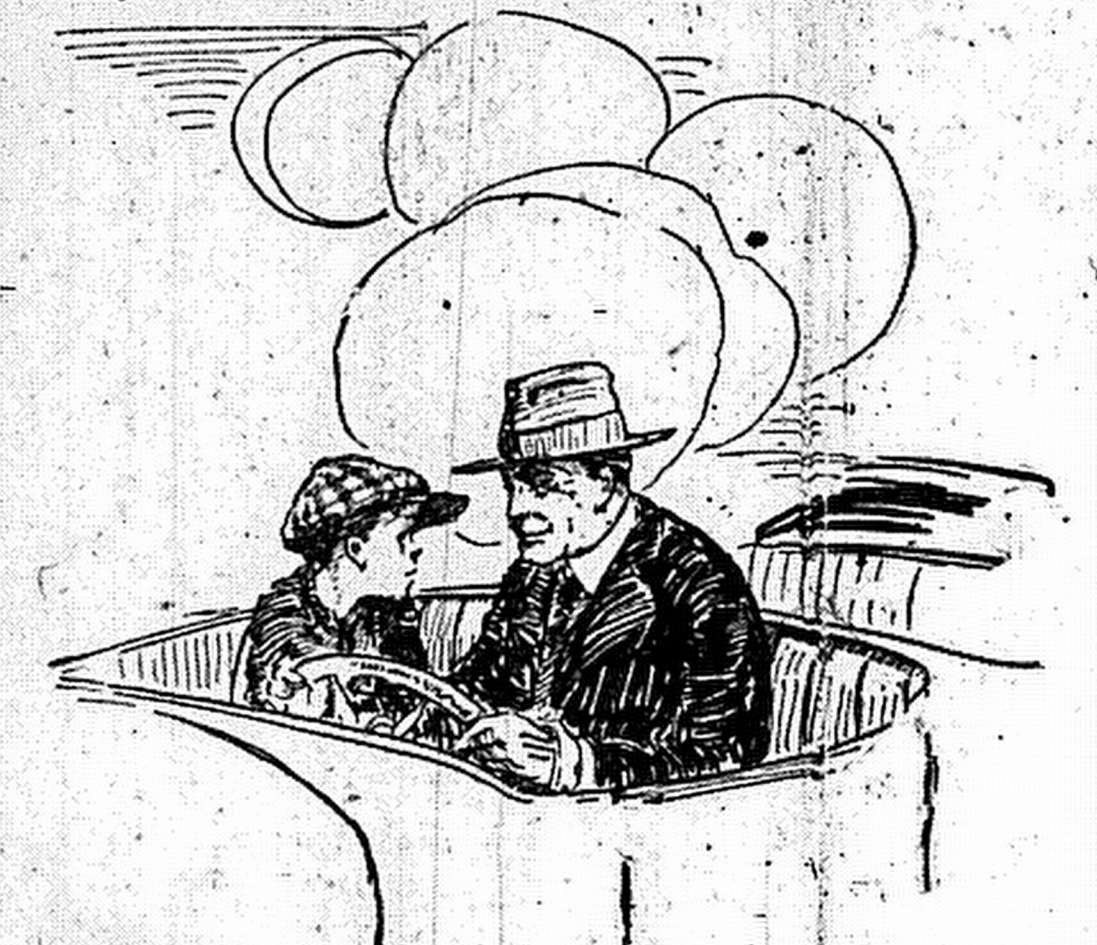

Looks as if that would be enough to safeguard me in this country, at least. But let me tell you something; the other day I saw a boy come creeping around the corner of the house with a parlor rifle; and before I could call out and warn my little mate, in the cherry tree—bang! Went the gun—shots and rifles to shoot English sparrows, should teach them the difference between blue-birds and sparrows. It does seem that a blind man could almost see the difference—when one is the color of the heavens, and the other the color of the earth—the winter earth, before spring has changed it to green. But to some people, a bird is just a bird, particularly if there is a rifle or sling-shot handy.

At the very first appearance of spring, I hop up on a gate post, and sing. "Truly—Truly—Truly!" just as loud as I can, and then people know that spring has really come; and they get out the hoes, the rakes and the forks, that have been resting all winter in the barn, and go to work planting seeds and things in the ground. Now, that is one good thing I did, to tell them when to plant the garden, wasn't it? To say nothing of all the cut-worms I and my family eat, that would just ruin the garden, if left unwatched. If people would only let us, we could help to make the world a pleasanter place, with

I Am Just a Little Combination Of The National Colors.

A touch of blue and white feathers, our music and sprightly ways. If I dived away on the breeze, and down she fell to the ground and I never saw her again. The lady who lived in the house, ran out and asked the boy what he was doing. He meant by killing so beautiful and innocent a bird? He stammered, and said he thought it was an English sparrow! The idea of such a thing—thinking a bird all blue and red and white was a common, brown sparrow. And she was my little mate, so gentle and good, and the mother of the little babies in the hollow apple tree! The people who send out boys with sling-

"You—you Aren't By Any Chance A Fairy, Are You, Sir?" He Questioned Eagerly.

Waking Up "Sleepy-Head Cora"

LITTLE fair-haired Cora was a sleepy-head. Think of that—a pretty little girl, whose locks were the color of the morning sunshine, never wanted to arise when her mother called her!

Cora's baby sister, Marie, was always wide awake every morning at 6 o'clock. Nothing could keep her in bed.

"Oh," sighed Mother, "if Cora would only be like Marie. What can I do to make her want to get up?" And so Mother worried.

Meantime, Cora continued to lie in bed every morning until 10 o'clock. Oh, how soft the pillow was! How cozy was her pretty flowered coverlet! How nice to lie in bed and dream, dream of daisy field and beautiful soda fountain!

"Come, Cora dear," Mother's voice would coax, "get up early this morning and have a nice long day for playing; won't you dear?"

And Cora would answer: "Just a few minutes more, Mamma," and with that would turn over and drop off to sleep again.

The winter months passed quickly. "Surely," said Mother, "the pretty spring mornings will get my baby out of bed!"

But no! Cora snuggled in her bed in April the same as in December. Then Mother had an idea. The spring garden was being planted. Flowers had to be selected. Mother looked over the list of flowers—sweet peas, poppies, marigolds, and all the others. Then her eye caught the name, morning glory.

"Morning glory," she exclaimed, "why, that's what my baby ought to be! I wonder if this flower could teach her a lesson. I'll plant some and see."

So she planted a row of morning glories beside the brick wall and set up poles for them to run on. And then she waited.

As the days passed and the leaves pushed their heads out of the ground, Mother hoped, yes, "I know," she thought to herself, "that these little flowers will be an example to my little Cora."

One day when Cora was sauntering about the garden, asking what was planted in the different beds, she came to the morning glories. They were the about two feet high.

"What kind of vines are these?" she asked.

"They have a lovely name," replied her Mother, "a name that I would like to be able to call my little Cora—morning glory!"

"Morning glory!" repeated Cora. "Why is it called that?"

"Well, it is like this dear," her Mother went on to say. "This vine has a little flower on it, shaped like a bell and of all different colors, which opens in the early morning to show its full beauty and closes in the early afternoon. As soon as the sun peeps up, this little flower is ready with open wide, to greet him. What do you think of that?"

Cora looked at the vines closely. She was very serious. After a while she asked: "How soon will the flowers come?"

"In about a week or so," answered her Mother.

"Well, I'll watch them to see if they really wake up every morning to see the sun," she said slowly. Then she turned away to catch baby Marie who came toddling towards her.

Each day she watched the vines carefully for the first signs of flower buds. The vines were meantime climbing to the top of the poles, and they were soon to bear flowers. Cora did not have to wait long. One afternoon she spied the baby bud.

All excitement, she ran into the house, crying: "Oh Mamma, tomorrow I can see if the morning glory really gets up with the sun, for the vines has a bud!"

Mother smiled to herself. "How early do I have to get up?" asked Cora.

"Seven o'clock will be early enough," replied Mother.

And so, the next morning, Cora got up early for the first time in her life. Quickly dressing, she ran downstairs and out into the garden. There, the beautiful blue and red bud of the night before was open to the fullest!

There was the dainty little flower greeting the morning sun just as Mother had said it would.

Cora looked at it for a few minutes. How funny that a little flower can wake up so early, she mused to herself. "I must watch it at noon to see if it closes up and goes to sleep," she said.

At noon, sure enough, it folded its petals together and curled to sleep. "This is certainly a queer flower," said Cora to her baby sister.

That night when she was getting ready for bed, she whispered to baby Marie, "Let's get up early together tomorrow morning and see if the morning glory is awake too!" And baby Marie gurgled assent.

On the morrow, they both slipped out of the house into the garden, hand in hand. Such a surprise greeted them! Not one, but many beautiful morning glories were turning their faces to welcome the old sun. Marie clapped her little hands and laughed at the sight. Cora took one of the flowers in her hand.

"You're a smart flower, all right," she said. "I'm not going to let you get ahead of me, though. Every morning I am going to get up early too!"

Their Mother called to them. "How are my babies, this morning," she asked. "How's my little morning glory?" she said to Cora, pinching her rosy cheeks.

"I'm all right, Mamma," she answered. "And I am going to be your little Morning Glory every morning from now on, even in the winter when there are no really, truly morning glories in the garden."

Mrs. Robin's Queer Nesting Place

One morning Mary was sitting on the front porch playing with her dolls when suddenly she heard a funny little "Peep! Peep!" right over her head.

"What in the world can that be?" she asked herself and she laid aside her dolls and began listening and looking to see if she could find out what that sound was and where it came from.

It didn't take long to discover a nest, yes, a nest—a beautiful bird's nest right in among the beam that supported the vine covered roof of the porch. Of course, Mary couldn't see much of the nest, oh no, but she could see enough to make her know that it was a very nice nest and to make her wish that she could see more.

"I'm not going to play dolls any more today," she decided. "I'm just going to watch that nest and see if I can find out what sort of a bird lives on my porch." So she put her dolls in their cart and settled herself in a comfortable chair to watch and wait.

Before she had had time to grow tired, the mother bird came home just as Mary had expected she would and Mary could see her just as plain as plain could be!

And what kind of a bird do you suppose she was? Of course, you've guessed from the name of this story—that mother bird was a beautiful robin and you may be sure Mary was glad she was living over her porch.

As the mother bird came towards the nest five little robin babies reached out of the nest to greet her and to get the big fat worm she was bringing them. Such fun as it was to watch them! Mary was sorry to think of the morning she had played on the back porch, and so had missed seeing the robin babies before.

But if she had missed the first part of the robin's stay, she certainly didn't miss much after she had once found them! She watched them every day—both morning and evening and all the between times that she could and she learned to know just what the mother bird and the babies were likely to do.

One day, when the robin babies were nearly old enough to fly, a man came to cut the grass in the front yard. And just as he was about to run his mower over the grass close up to the mower, Mary heard a frightened "Peep! Peep!" right in front of the mower.

"Wait! Wait! Wait!" she called, as she ran down to the spot where the sound came from. "I think one of my robin babies is in the grass." And sure enough there it was! A tiny little robin so frightened and lone-some it could hardly call for help. Mary picked it up tenderly and carried it out of the way of danger.

When her father came home for lunch he put the little bird in its own little nest. And what of the mother bird? She was so happy when she found her baby was back in the nest safe and sound that she chirped and sang all the day long. Mary thought she must be trying to say "Thank you!"

NAVY LEAGUE IN PUBLIC APPEAL

Wants People Here to Join in Work Which Will Help the Nation.

WILL OPEN HEADQUARTERS

The executive committee of the newly organized Navy League in a statement issued today sets forth the purpose of the league. The statement is a preliminary to a campaign for members to be conducted by the league. The statement follows:

"While we wait for the actual commencement of hostilities, every American should prepare to do his bit. To those who cannot answer the call to arms the Navy League offers an opportunity for patriotic work which must be done for those who are guarding us on the seas. For fourteen years the league has been advocating a navy adequate to uphold the honor of our country, to guard us, in as far as possible, from attack, and to assure victory in the event we were forced into war."

War forced upon us. The question that must be foremost with every true American is, "How can I best serve my country?" You may be one of many who, for various reasons, will be unable to give your country active service. You can be of great use to the country by joining the Navy League, and helping us carry on the work which we have begun with the authority of the president and the navy department."

"The Navy League, after consultation with officials of the navy department, has decided, in the present crisis, to undertake the following program:

"1. To aid in recruiting for the navy service.

"2. To assist in procuring enlistments in the naval reserve, recently provided by congress.

"3. To undertake to furnish needed articles of clothing, equipment, comfort and hospital stores required by the exigencies of the service, and at this time not furnished by the government."

"The most valuable service that those unable to enlist themselves can perform for the country at the present time is to get men enlisted in the navy. While it is important to get men for the other branches of the service, the need of the navy for enlisted men is immediate. Owing to the shortage of officers and men of the regular navy, it is a physical impossibility for the navy to recruit the men needed with the requisite speed. It is impossible for the navy department to furnish recruiting literature, posters, pamphlets, etc., fast enough. It is therefore necessary that thousands of patriotic people, both men and women, who wish to help their country at the present time, take steps to obtain men for the navy."

No Navy Conscription. "There is no mention made in any of the proposed selective conscription bills regarding enlisting men for the navy, consequently we are called upon to raise within the next few weeks in the neighborhood of 75,000 additional recruits."

"A citizen who considers his duty done when he has paid his taxes is a 'lackey'."

"The more we do for our country, the sooner the war will be over, and consequently those who look at their labors from a selfish viewpoint, will be rewarded by having their taxes reduced sooner."

"The Navy League particularly desires women members, although it is not necessary to be a member of the league in order to furnish needed articles for the sailors. Articles mostly needed will be knitted caps."

CLOTHING

One of Country's Cheapest Commodities

In the fall of 1914, when the great European war cut off the supply of dyes, which the United States had obtained from Germany and as the supply in this country became exhausted, "clothing" suffered a justifiable advance in price.

Lately the wool supply has become inadequate and a shortage of materials resulted.

American industry solved the dye problem—not quite as well perhaps, nor as cheaply as it was taken care of, up to the present time at least, but much can be looked for in the "future development" of it.

The wool supply will be increased due to the efforts of such associations as the National Sheep and Wool Bureau and other like organizations.

Since the late entrance of the United States into the war, and even long before it, many other commodities suffered an increase in price. Clothing has increased, too, but to no such extent as many other products.

The fact remains that the American public has been so thoroughly imbued with the idea sky high prices that they unconsciously include clothing with the other necessities.

As a matter of fact our suits for men and young men we sell at $15 to $30, have shown only a small increase in the past year.

A New Product—An Old Standard

The introduction of a pure milk at a low price and a decreased charge for certified milk beginning June First will be made by the Alexandria Farms Dairy. A surprising announcement in the face of rising prices but made possible through the elimination of feed and labor costs by turning our cows to pasture.

In taking these steps there will be no depreciation in the quality of our product, the original purpose of the Alexandria Farms Dairy to supply the Aurora public with the best grade of milk will be strictly adhered to, the decreased cost to consumer discountenancing the slightest attempt toward inferiority.

WALL ST. EXPECTS WHEAT TRADE HALT

Possibility That All Trading
Will Be Stopped Before Opening Monday Is Seen.

Stocks Are Heavy, St. Paul Railroad
Dropping to Lowest Point
Since 1907.

(By Broadland Wall.)
The International News Service.

New York, May 17.—In the actual state of the market today, it is expected that the wheat trade will be stopped before opening Monday.

Stocks opened heavy, went to materially lower prices and just before the close were advanced on short covering so that some net gains were shown for the day. There is no short interest of importance in the wheat market, although it is expected that the wheat trade will be stopped before opening Monday.

Wheat Records Go. Announcement that no further trading would be permitted in May and all contracts would be closed at $2.18 a bushel, the closing price of Friday, sent the speculators into the July option with the result that it made new high records every few minutes during the session. The July sold at $2.65 it became evident that speculation would have to be stopped and a move was started looking to the closing of the board of trade. It is possible that official action may be taken before the opening Monday.

Coppers are being liquidated on every stop spot, but the price of production is advancing rapidly. Selling today made itself most seriously felt in the railroad list. This was due partly to known bad earnings, particularly of the Pullman, which was closed at noon yesterday. Liquidation in progress. Further discussion was heard of the tax plans of the government. Wall street is violently opposed to an increase of the excess profit tax and to a retroactive increase of the income tax of 1915.

WEEK OF RECORD PRICES IN WHEAT

Five Days in Succession Saw
High Mark Shattered—Crop
Report Big Factor.

Plans Being Made to Give Entente
Allies 33,000,000 Bushels
by July 1.

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, May 17.—Every single day in the last week has witnessed a big advance in wheat prices, and on five days out of six the market advanced. The chief impetus came from the government crop report telling of the largest abandonment of winter wheat acreage ever known in the United States. Compared with a week ago, values this morning showed a rise of $2.40 to $2.50. Other net gains during the interval were: Corn, 14¢ to 15¢; oats, 15¢ to 16¢; provisions, 1¢ to 2¢.

Expectation of a bullish government crop report quickly supplanted bearish effects which had resulted from word that the authorities at Washington and Ottawa were in agreement on a joint effort to control wheat prices. Concern over difficulties of securing corn shipments of enough wheat to fill outstanding contracts for May delivery tended further to lift prices prior to the issuance of the government report. It was not, however, until the day the report was given out and especially on the day following that the most astounding upturn in value took place. Trade anticipations of the Washington figures proved to have been too conservative, as the official estimate put the shortage in the United States winter crop at the huge total of 115,000,000 bushels, 33,000,000 to allies.

Plans of the entente allies to take 33,000,000 bushels from the United States in connection with the continuous advances in the market. On the other hand it was denied that talk by an American government official as to the possibility of prices reaching $2.00 a bushel was a factor in the upward whirl of quotations. Through the week the volume of transactions was greatly reduced by the requirement of almost prohibitive margins. A bushel of more, and by the refusal of leading houses to accept speculative trades, especially in the May delivery.

Corn as well as wheat reached new altitudes in price. Oats like corn was strengthened by sympathy with wheat. Both the feed grains, the wheat and corn, were held back by suspicious crop conditions.

Record advances in hogs and cereals made provisions averages higher.

Excess Reserves Grow. (By Associated Press Leased Wire.) New York, May 17.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $167,199,000 reserves in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $16,750,000 over last week.

Montgomery Bridge a Model.—The new Montgomery bridge, which has been officially declared the "one of the best" of Illinois, has been adopted as the design for the new bridge to be erected at Elgin. This is a compliment to County Superintendent of Highways George N. Lamb and the officials who had to do with building the bridge.

Moose Seek to Solve Death Mystery.—The Loyd Order of Moose is, through its members, trying to learn the identity of "M. Ward," killed at Elgin by a train. He had registered at a Elgin hotel as "M. Allen, Aurora, Ill." Judge N. J. 403. The "M. Ward" was married on his line.

Wine Weight Suit.—E. J. Annenberg, Aurora, scrap iron dealer, was awarded a claim for damages against the E. J. & R. railroad, $115 in the court of Justice of the Peace Cortis Dutton yesterday. The suit arose over a difference in weights. Annenberg shipped the iron from Aurora to Joliet, billing the weight on his scales as 82,000 pounds. On arrival in Joliet the car weighed but 84,700 pounds and Annenberg sued the railroad for the difference. He was awarded the decision on grounds that the railroad was liable for the amount of iron, when they accepted his payment of freight on it.

"UNWILLING BRIDE" ASKS SEPARATION

Esther Goeden of Sandwich Alleges John Goeden, Now Missing, Threatened Her Life.

Declares She Went Through Ceremony
Only to "Just Pretend" and Prevent Bodily Harm.

"I was an unwilling bride," is the claim of Esther Goeden of Sandwich in her bill to have her "pretended marriage" annulled. She claims that when she was at the matrimonial altar with John Goeden on Jan. 1, 1916, that she only pretended she was getting married. The unwilling bride tells all about it in a bill to have the marriage annulled, she has filed in the circuit court at Quincy. Atty. D. Harvey Gurnea of Aurora is her lawyer.

Mrs. Goeden tells in her bill that she and Goeden went through a ceremony of marriage in DeKalb county, that her participation in said ceremony was not of her free will, but that John Goeden, by threats, she alleges, made to her, "to do her bodily injury and even to take her life," overcame her judgment and will.

Refused to Live With Him. "I was unlawfully forced into said pretended marriage," Mrs. Goeden says in her bill. "After the ceremony he continued to threaten me, if I should refuse to live with him."

The unwilling bride says in her bill, "that not until September, 1916, did I get courage enough to take a stand against John Goeden and I then told him that unless he left the town in which we were living that I would at once expose him to the public. Shortly thereafter he secretly left the town and since then I have heard nothing from him."

WOULD TAX EVERYTHING

"A war tax on the sales of every article," is the suggestion of E. E. Kroehler, president of the Kroehler Manufacturing company of Naperville, has made to Congressman J. C. Copley.

"Here is what we are up against: There are many manufacturers who never figure their costs and are doing a good deal of harm by reason of quoting prices that cannot possibly show a profit and they are escaping the war tax for the reason that they make no profit. Manufacturers do not know how to figure their costs and make a selling price to give them a profit and are obliged to pay out a large percentage of that profit as war tax and the fellow who does the most harm and is usually on the verge of a failure and isn't business man enough to realize a fair profit is the one who escapes taxation entirely, which gives him a still better chance to undersell the man who makes a living profit."

AURORA MAY SECURE
STATE JEWELRY MEET

The annual convention of the Illinois Jewellers' Retail association may be held in Aurora next spring. A local jeweller said yesterday, if the co-operation of the Aurora Commercial club can be secured.

This year's convention has just closed in Chicago where over 500 Illinois jewellers were in attendance. Carl Vogtmann of Aurora attended the convention which was held at the Sherman hotel. He was appointed one of the members of the resolutions committee.

Mr. Vogtmann is confident that the annual convention can be arranged to be held in Aurora next spring and a number of local jewellers may be appointed as a committee to look into the matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogtmann, J. M. Custer and Edward Fack of Frank & Co. were the only ones from Aurora who attended the big banquet held in the gold room of the Congress hotel Thursday night.

Stomach Pump for Georgia Drinkers

(The International News Service.) Macon, Ga., May 17.—A stomach pump has been added to the equipment of the detective department of the city of Macon with a view to aiding in the detection of violators of the "bone-dry" prohibition law.

City Detective Edward Newberry secured authority from the chief of police to purchase a stomach pump and got City Physician O. C. Gibson to instruct him in its use. He proposes to apply the stomach pump on every person arrested and whose breath has any evidence of the odor of whiskey.

"I have had many number of people ask me this morning to interpret the bone-dry prohibition law," said Detective Newberry. "I have told them that if they even smell of whiskey they are violators, and in order to make sure that my olfactory organ does not deceive me in the future, I have purchased a stomach pump. I propose to add it to my equipment. I propose to hand out those whom I think have been drinking and after that has been done I will apply the stomach pump. If I find as much as a drop of whiskey I will hold them for violating the prohibition law."

When a woman says "I will" the motion is carried unanimously.

Mary's Understudy.

Mary Miles Minter is training an understudy.

The little film star has taken her understudy wing the duties of a tiny bit of femininity who she hopes may some day emulate her own rise to fame.

Little Madeline Headley, aged five, with big, sparkling, blue eyes and a wealth of tousled blond hair, is Mary's "discovery."

Some time ago Miss Minter and her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, made a trip to Los Angeles for the purpose of acquiring a number of gowns for Mary's next production. During their stay the little star, who is very fond of children, spent all the time she could with the kiddies at the hotel who were eager to meet their idol on the screen. Little Madeline was among these and Miss Minter soon singled her out as a "find" and a strong attachment grew up between the two.

The tiny blond confided to her new found friend her ambition to become a motion picture actress just like her idolized Mary. Recognizing not only the charm and beauty of this striking child, but also her unusual personality and magnetism, Mary Miles Minter decided to try to do something to make her wish come true. She wrote her director, James Kirkwood, and he replied that they needed such a child in "Annie-for-Spice" and would give her a tryout. If Miss Minter cared to bring her along. Consequently the child was taken back to Santa Barbara, and plays an important role in the latest production featuring Mary Miles Minter—"Annie-for-Spice," released thru Mutual May 14.

If the enthusiasm of the star counts for anything, followers of Miss Norma Talmadge may expect to see her finest screen impersonation in "Poppy," her forthcoming picture.

"In my career before the camera I have never experienced such a fascinated interest in a character as I have felt for that pathetic little child of destiny, Poppy, the heroine of Cynthia Stockley's famous book," said Miss Talmadge.

"It has been said that the whole world has wept over the disappointment and disasters that overtook Poppy, making her life so miserable before attaining happiness thru her wonderful love. I guess that isn't so far from being literally true, if there ever was a woman who would turn fire and brimstone for the sake of a love, that woman is Poppy.

MANUFACTURERS PROTEST

(By Associated Press. Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 12.—The general attack on the war tax bill continued today before the senate finance committee. Scores of manufacturers and representatives of other taxed interests protested against the house bill. Taxation of parcel post packages was advanced by representatives of railroads and express companies who contended it would only be fair to tax packages sent by parcel post which competes with the express companies.

The cent a pound tax and higher duty on coffee was assailed by Frank R. Seelye of Chicago, president of the National Coffee Roasters' association.

Representing interurban electric roads, Arthur W. Brady of Anderson, Ind., said the proposed taxes discriminate in favor of automobile lines having established routes competing with electric roads.

Says Joe Frey:

I've found that the satisfaction of my customers to a large extent is dependent on the quality of the products I serve. With them it's not a case of "quantity," but "what" and "how" I serve it. However, at that I certainly give a full measure of value.

Great guns! I'd far better give them a superior article, because I see every day what happens to the man who sells a mediocre product.

That's why my Sea Food Cafe is a distinguished service when compared to that offered the public elsewhere. Shrimp, clams, crabs, lobsters and other salt water foods, fresh and palatable, put up for home use or prepared hot for serving at my place, sure are as savory as any king could wish to eat.

If you've ever patronized my place you know and every good man knows it's a rare treat to step up with a ready appetite and satisfy it with a dish of my chef's preparation. You'll understand then what I mean when I say
